

Bill Campbell ATOS Summary

For the period ending June 30, 2020 I did the following as a member of the ATOS Board.

In June 2019, I attended the annual ATOS convention in Rochester, NY. It was a very well-run convention with a lot of great entertainment. During the year, I attended most ATOS board meetings held on a monthly basis online.

I wrote two articles for the Theatre Organ Journal. The subject of the first was how I thought some of the older big band music was the best match for a concert or a social. In the second, I took advantage of my location in Southern California to explore the beginnings of the silent movie era in Hollywood.

I promoted ATOS through the multiple theatre organ concerts I performed in the last year. When I performed for the London and South of England Chapter last June, Len Rawle, the chairman of the chapter, announced to the audience that I was from the national ATOS board. Therefore, he said that the chapter was being "inspected" from the national office. It was kind of funny, but the concert went off well and everyone attending had a great time.

At the local level in the Los Angeles area, I continued to serve as LATOS' Treasurer, which I've done for the last three years.
